Disclosure

The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) has guidelines regarding endorsements and testimonials to protect you from misleading advertising that's been paid for by a company. Musical Pier is an income source and does occasionally include endorsements and testimonials from affiliates and partners, it's important to disclose the following:

I only endorse and promote products I trust and use for myself.

- This blog is a source of income and may be used to promote products, services, or other businesses.
- I only share and promote products/services/businesses that I have used and that believe could be beneficial to you.
- Affiliate links are used in some posts where I make a small percentage of each sale. This is one way I make money from blogging. It does not result in additional charges or cost you anything extra.
- Mentions of related products/services/businesses within the content of my blog may or may not be noted as an affiliate in every reference.
- Products provided to me for review are given free of charge. However, this doesn't guarantee a positive review – I always review honestly and openly. I do not endorse or post about products I don't believe in.
- My goal is to share my expertise and provide helpful content while generating a small profit to make a living for myself.

I earn a living as a blogger in the following ways:

1. Affiliate links

The companies that I employ affiliate links with currently are:

- Envato Elements
- Bluehost

I use both these companies and endorse these products because I have had a great experience with them.

2. Amazon Associates

I am a participant in the Amazon Services LLC Associates Program, an affiliate advertising program designed to provide a means for me to earn fees by linking to Amazon.com and affiliated sites. I only endorse products I believe in that complement this niche.
